THE WASHINGTON EVIDENCE

Company might write, unless Mr. Massey was himself a party.

Mr. Thom thought that the admission of the evidence might tend to drag into this case a thousand issues that illegally might militate against the plaintiff; that it might make necessary the proof that bribery took place in the State of Washington.

Capt. Wise—We wish you would drag that in. We are prepared to show the bribery that took place out there. Mr. Thom—We don't propose to be compelled to go into that matter, which is not an issue in this case.

Capt. Wise—No, you will go slow on that matter.

Mr. Thom continued to argue his interpretation of the law to sustain the position taken by the plaintiff's counsel on this point.

Capt. Wise stated that he did not propose to drop this point and lose this necessary and lawful evidence in this case without every effort possible on his part to bring it before the jury.

Mr. Walker argued strongly to the effect that the counsel on the other side were attempting to bring a specific act of bribery on the part of others in the State of Washington to assist in proving the charge of bribery against John E. Massey in Virginia; that specific acts in the past could not under ruling already made by His Honor be used to prove this charge against the plaintiff; that conspiracy between Womack and Massey had not been proven, and that Womack's acts should not under the law be admitted to effect John E. Massey's case.

During the discussion there was something of a sensation produced when Mr. Thom, in objecting to the Leach evidence, said, with great spirit, that the plaintiff is testing the introduction of the evidence because it is illegal, but that the plaintiff stood ready to prove that the witness Leach, of the State of Washington, did accept the bribe, and that the only reason he did not get the money was it was stopped at the bank.

Capt. Wise, in arguing the admissibility of the evidence from Washington, said he desired to show that the American Book Company was a great octopus, reaching out and taking in this whole country.

When he had concluded, Mr. Wm. H. White, representing the American Book Company, said he felt called upon, during argument of counsel, to protect his clients from statements made by counsel for the defense (although the American Book Company is not a party to this suit). "If it is the purpose of the defense in this case to attempt to show that the American Book Company is a great octopus, the purpose of which is to defraud all the States of the Union, then the Book Company, although a stranger to the record in this case, must ask to be permitted to refute what is being said."

Mr. White continued by saying that the American Book Company is composed of reputable gentlemen.

Capt. Wise jumped up and suggested that this matter of Mr. White's is a "side show," and, said Capt. Wise, "Let them (the Book Company) come in and be a party to the suit, if they want to."

Mr. White replied and asked that the Court guard the American Book Company against such statements as have been made.

Judge Prentiss ruled out all the Washington documents except such as related to Womack's whereabouts and the jury was recalled. Captain Wise then interrogated witness Leach and nearly all of his questions were ruled out to which he noted exceptions. The witness then retired from the stand, not having been allowed to testify to anything of a material character.

Capt. Wise next submitted a deposition of Charles S. Patton, of the University Publishing Company; also one from Mr. Lovell, a New York publisher, the owner of the Graphic Copy Book. These depositions related to the Virginia contracts. Neither spoke in harsh terms of Mr. Womack or Mr. Massey.

At 3 o'clock the Court adjourned. The counsel for the plaintiff were delighted with the result of the day's fight and claim a great victory.

NEWPORT NEWS.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., July 8.—The death of Mrs. Walter B. Livezey, which occurred here Sunday night about 9 o'clock, was a shock to the entire community. For several days she had lingered between life and death, but hopes of her recovery had been entertained until a few hours before the end came. The deceased was Miss Katie Poe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Poe. She was reared in Raleigh, N. C., where her family resided until a few years ago, when they came to Virginia.

As a young lady, she drew around her a large circle of friends and admirers, and to them as well as a number of acquaintances her death has brought grief and sorrow. Just 21 months ago she married Mr. W. B. Livezey, of this city, and viewing her future as one filled with joy and happiness, she had all to live for, so "death lies on her like an untimely frost upon the sweetest flower of all the field."

The deceased was just 24 years old and leaves an infant daughter 10 days old. The funeral will take place this afternoon from the Methodist Church, of which she was a member.

All this costs but little over the original expense of a telephone. We will send particulars on request. Jy2-1m J. W. CREWS.

Last June Dick Crawford brought his twelve months old child, suffering from infantile diarrhea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and had always been sickly. I gave it the usual treatment in such cases but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent size had been used a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this remedy. J. T. MARLOW, M. D., Tamaroa, Ill. For sale by all druggists.
